The Secretary of War, or haply some true'y selections, must have credit for a discovery of the greatest practical learning. of the greatest practical importance. Every-body his wondered at the defection of so large a ber of our melitary and navat officers. here been rather proud of these men, and not without reason, as the world goes, Suddenly, bull of them turn traitors and this ves, many taking such circuitous routes of dishonor, that their friends blush, and even their wives dis own them. What is the matter? Were they not educated at West Point, at the national expense? Yes. Had they not sworn a legiance to the Government? Yes. Were they not gentlemen of spotless honor? Yes-a hundred times, yes. They have fought duels on that question, not a few, and could swear great caths, and not a man of them foored the cannon's month. What, then, was the

Mr CAMBRON, at the suggestion of the Bush of West Point visitors, has touched the root of the matter like a philosopher and like a Caristian. He says :-

The supplementary report (of the visitors) reskes a special reference to the ayatem of discipline, which, it appears, from 'nea obtained up not investigation, ignores, practically the essential distinction between cots wrome in themselves and acts wrome because pith thicked by special regulations. Honor, in the usual acceptation of the term. neems "not what it is cracked up to be." A great philosophical writer has said that although honor is considered a sort of glorified horsety, it is in fact little better than th ghost of that noblest of qualities. We thank God that an utterance so suggestive and so Christainly as the above quetation from the report of the War Secretary, has found its way into a prominent state paper. And in view of the illustration of its truth which has cost us so much in this perilous crisis, will not the people heed it? There is no dependence upon an honor that is not guarded upon Christian prin ciples. As long as the morallity of the Bible is accounted of little value in the education of public men; as long as physical culture and brute bravery are placed above the courage that dares respect the laws of God; as long as profanity, hard drinking and unchastity are beld venial, if a man is only prompt and skillful; so long shall we have public servants who will disappoint and betray us in the severest tests of character. The principle is of the broadest application. Give us magistrates and military officers, who fear G al and hopor his law, then shall -

Swiding the Government

Ir is stated that Congress will be strongly urged to appoint a committee to investigate alleged francs upon the Gavernment in the furnishing of supplies to the army, the purchasing of borns and the chartering of sea a If one half of the statements published be true, advantage has been taken of the nocossities of the government or good-will of its members to make most exharbitant bargains with it.

Congress All Right.

The proceedings in the House yesterday, indicate a sensible and patriotic working majerity, and afford good augury of a short and vigorous session, and a short and vigorous war. The House had already wisely resolved to entertain no unnecessary business, thus blocking the game alike of compromises and incendiaries. Under the singular ruling of the speaker, a vote on Mr. Lov. Joy's hare brained resolutions afforded, however, a fresh, and refreshing test of the persistent determition of the House to devote its whole power to Military News.

DEPARTURE OF THE DEKALE REGIMENT -This excellent regiment, Col. VON GILSA, effected its departure last evening. Few mili tary bodies have left this city under better discipline, or whose marching before the critical thousands along the line of the procession excited a warmer enthusiasm. The great proportion of them are Germans. A large number were in the Russian army in Schleswig-Holstein, actively engaged against the Dane from 1848 to 1851. The regiment numbers 1.046 men. They took their departure from Hamilton Park about half-past three P. M., yesterday. At the residence of Mr. WITHAMS, on 34th streat, a delegation of the Union De fense C. mmittee bad collected, including his Homor Mayor Wood. As the regiment filed pest this residence, they gave those there as sembled the honor of a marching salute.

The uniform of the regiment is that of the Prus gian r fles...dark green tunios, taced with red. grey pants with red stripe, and dark green pasts, trimmed with red, except or e company—company A. ca'led the "During Zonaves," which led the regiment in the original Z wave or Turco uniform. CITY NEWS. ST. FRANCIS XAVIER'S COLLEGE .- ELEstyles. This is the reception-room, and its VENTH ANNUAL COMMEDCEMENT .- St. Francis Xavier's College, situated at No. 49 West nencement yesterday, at the institution. This is the first year of St. Xavier's as a University. Its papils this year number 268, sixty of whom are in the university course, and the others in the preparatory and classical classes. Rev. J. DURTHALLER is President and Prefect of Studies, and the Rev. H. GLACKMETER is Vice-President, Chief Disciplinarian, Professor of Legic, Metaphys'es and Ethics. The other members of the faculty are eminent in their several prefessions. With but a few exceptions the faculty are members of the Society of the play ground of the college. Seats were placed for about a thousand spectators, but before the exercises began these were crowded, and even the sisles between them and the yard beyond, were filled with spectators. Facing the spectators, a large sloping platform had been erected for the speakers, a portion of the classes and the faculty, at the back of which, on the wall of the building, crimson hangings were arranged in the form of an arch. Over the centre of the arch appeared the coat of arms of the Pope, on one side those of the Archbishep, and the other the cypher, I. H. S; while in the centre, on a white shield, bound with a wreath of leaves, was emblazoned the seal of the college, -a cross supported by a scroll and pen and surrounded by a laur-cl wreath. Most Rav. Archbishop HUGHES, Rev. Bishop SPINOSA, Rev. Fathers STARR and CEMMINGS, and a number of other important functionaries in the Catholic Church, occupied seats before the platform.

The commencement exercises were held in

of the college gave, very effectively, the chorus "L'Juno della Vittoria," from Balizaric, Mr. Benge singing the solo. Mr. D. E. McSwanney next spoke, on "The Indebtedness of the Orator to History."

At the close of the discourse, a singing class

second choras from "Lucrezia Borgia" was even better performed than the first. Mr. JAMES H. McGEAN delivered the vale dictory address, taking for his subject, "Religion the Safeguard of a Nation." This was decidedly the best of the day. He as sumed the greatest age of any nation to be that in which religion was most firmly fixed in the hearts of its people, and as a proof he cited the nations of antiquity, which, having risen to great seeming power and wealth rapidly declined until now they exist only in name, simply because they were without the elements of permanence, virtue, morality and religion. At a later day Col. Isnys, expec's to leave today, but as they the French revolution is another instance. In it, a nation was in a few years from being in the first rank of European powers, plunged into civil war and ruin, where the innocent and noble were doomed and martyred by thousands and the nation degraded, because they had no religion, no faith in ought higher than political expediency. The closing portion of the address was directed to the graduating class, whom he adjured to remember on enter-ing public life the Christian education the had received and always to render themselves

ment, one smould commence in the basement and ascend to the highest room. Here is a floor cee hundred feet in depth. The front is the reception room for stock, and where goods are packed for the jobing trade. Farther back are the water tanks, three in number, for washing the pictures which are sent down from above, for that purpose, by a slide cupboard. These tanks are supplied with croton water, introduced by means of small iron piess running all around the sides at the bottom, and so perferated as to admit the water by means of an almost innumarable number of jets, and thereby keep it in constant motion. Here, too, is one of Pollack's double action force pumps, a perfect marvel of machinery, by means of which a child can throw two hundred galons to the third story in an hour's time. The water for all mechanical and other purposes above, is thus supplied. In the rear, is the stock room, where frames, cases, fine goods of every kind, and chemicals and materials for their live of business, are kept constantly on hand for the tupply of the trade. This is probably the most extensive stock of such materials on this continent, and embraces a large variety of elegant goods acver before imported. The turkey, morocco and velvet cases, are of their own manufacture. The goods now in this room are valued at frem $35.000 to $19.000.

The first story above the basement is the reception room, to which we have before referred. It is minsteen feet to the ceiling, elegant in its furniture and afornments.

Upon the second floor, on either side of a wide hall, are artists rooms for finishing and painting pictures, and a ladies' dressing room. In front of the kind we have ever seen. It is covered forty feet by twelve in width with blue ground glass, through which the light is admitted with a tint very grateful to the eye, and peculiarly adapted to the work which is required for that are other rooms for artists, &c.
